

A Vehicle Identification Number, commonly abbreviated as VIN, is a unique serial number used by the automotive industry to identify individual motor vehicles. The VIN can be located in the following locations:

